

Camp Morasha Dress Code

One of our primary objectives is to inculcate Torah values, healthy attitudes and good character traits in our campers.

Males may not wear sleeveless shirts to t'filla, shiurim, and in the Dining Room. On Shabbat, males must wear a SOLID white or SOLID blue buttoned-down shirt (no 3-button polo shirts allowed), slacks of any color (not jeans) and shoes (not sneakers). A kippah (or hat) must be worn at all times and tzitzit, when not playing sports or swimming.

Females should adhere to the following guidelines:

- Jeans, sweatpants, yoga pants, or other loose fitting pants are permitted. Shorts and skirts are permitted, but must approach the knee (which will be enforced at the discretion of our Girls' Campus staff). Leggings, jeggings, boxer, biker, and soffe shorts, tank tops and cap sleeves are not permitted.
- All t-shirts that were permitted last summer, including v-necks, are permitted for this summer as well. Necklines of shirts should not be inappropriately revealing, see-through, or cut.
- Please make sure that Shabbat clothes adhere to these guidelines. Shabbat clothes should be befitting for Shabbat and should not be exceedingly tight fitting or short.
