THIS PAST WEEK AT CAMP MORASHA

What a colossally cool week at Morasha!

On Sunday, all campers were treated to a delicious dessert because it was "Sundaes on Sunday," an ice cream extravaganza served at lunchtime. The smooth and creamy treat rivaled the best gelato in Italy and the wide array of fun flavors and tasty toppings coalesced into a magnificent mountain of gelida goodness. It was a super-duper scooper of a time!

On Monday, Boys Campus took part in Morasha's insanely-awesome Super Bowl Monday Flag Football Tournament! It was a day of intense yet respectful football competition that had every camper feeling like a Super Bowl champion. At the same time on Girls Campus, Machzor Aleph engaged in the famous and beloved “Bunk Wars” while Machzor Bet had their own mini-Color War! It was a spirited festival of fun and epic excitement with the entire Girls Campus brimming with euphoric energy.

Tuesday was a day of regularly-scheduled activities followed by the special, moving and unforgettable nine days production: I Never Saw Another Butterfly. The play was directed by Sally Shatkes who deserves a big Kol Hakavod, as do all the participants!

On Wednesday, it was the legendary and extraordinary campwide intercamps. Morasha faced off against Nesher, Seneca, Lavi, Moshava and Mesorah in a day of intense sports competition and schmoozing with friends (and foes). Remember Morasha: Fight with all of your might and take no prisoners . . . because we have nowhere to house them. The camp is full!

On Thursday, Girls Campus participated in a classic and mouthwatering challah baking event! It was unbelievable! Flour flew, salt sprayed and dough was kneaded (and needed)! Some say that baking challah is a valuable skill that Morasha teaches because it is the “yeast” we can do.

On Friday, the week’s final activities left campers pleasantly exhausted and ready to embrace the second to last shabbos of the summer camp and, of course, Rabbi Willig’s phenomenal and highly-anticipated Chazon Tisch!

Have a fantastic shabbos!

INTERESTING INTERVIEWS @ CAMP MORASHA

Featuring: Shifra Leibowitz - YSG Division Head

1. How long have you been at Morasha?

This is my 7th summer as staff!! I also came here as a camper for two summers.

2. What's your favorite part of camp?

I love being in this environment. During the year I don't work in a Jewish environment, so it's nice to be around people with Torah values.

3. What's something about the Morasha administration only you know?

Honestly, I'm usually the last one to know things. So, I'm usually in the same boat as all the campers. If it's a secret to you then it's a secret to me :)

4. What do you fear most and why?

Bananas... the texture and smell. It's called banana phobia, feel free to look it up.

5. How are the YSG this year?

They are awesome!!! It's such a small group and it has a real family feel!!

6. What's the best part of being a division head?

Having the ability to spread kindness and the love of Hashem!!!

7. Fun Fact?

Before I was a division head, I was the spin instructor and I worked in the main office.
(Editor's Addition: Triple-double in Staff vs. Machzor Bet game).

SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS AT

CAMP MORASHA

Congratulations to the younger shtili/older nitzi girls Wayne county basketball team on defeating Camp Shoshanim in the finals! By way of background, Morasha lost to Camp Shoshanim by 1 at Nesher's Yom Nate tournament finals so our girls were nervous but ready to play. The girls played their game and played together as a team to bring home the win.

Spotlight on Daniella Rothman - Assistant Girls Head Sports

"Attending the European Maccabi Games was one of the best experiences of my life. The games were in Budapest, Hungary this summer and were attended by approximately 2,300 Jewish athletes from over 40 different countries. For 2 weeks, I played basketball and spent time meeting and befriending people from all over the world. To top off the whole experience, my team brought home the gold medal!"

Interview - Morasha Rock Climbing Wall, Girls Campus

1. How did you become Morasha's rock climbing wall?

I sort of got "roped" into it.

2. Do you have a name?

Yes, it's Walter Wallace Wallberger, but my friends just call be Wally.

3. Favorite store?

Walmart. (Duh!)

4. Favorite part of camp?

Trip days, fast days and any other days when campers are not climbing all over me. Even walls need a break sometimes.

5. Are you related to any other famous walls?

Yes, on my mother's side, the Great Wall of China and, on my father's side, the Berlin Wall (which was rightly torn down). And, of course, all walls happily trace their heritage back to the greatest wall on Earth, The Western Wall, i.e., The Kotel.

6. Do you have mixed feelings about the biblical story when Joshua fought the Battle of Jericho and, as the song goes, "the walls came a tumblin' down."

No, I completely understand that one. Kudos to Josh.

7. Have you ever done anything crazy and completely off-the-wall?

No because, as a wall, I can never do anything off-the-wall.

8. What renovations would you make at Morasha?

Every building should have "wall-to-wall" carpeting.

9. Number one goal?

Induction into the Wall of Fame, located in Waltham, MA.

FAKE NEWS FROM MORASHA

1. The wooded area between Girls Campus and Boys Campus is unofficially known as “Mechitza Forest.”
 2. During the winter months, Camp Morasha is a covert training facility for the Jamaican Bobsled team, Miami Boys Choir and Hollywood stunt doubles.
 3. Disney, known for its “Magic Kingdom,” is considering whether to file a trademark/copyright lawsuit against Camp Morasha for its use of the phrase “Morasha Magic.” In a related story, professional wrestler Hulk Hogan, famous for starting “Hulk-a-Mania,” is considering a similar lawsuit against Camp Morasha based on its “Morasha Mania” program.
 4. The concept of Morasha Color War was created when two campers were seen fighting over a box of crayons.
 5. This year, Morasha will feature the following new activities: advanced dreidel spinning, long-distance hora dancing and archery in the dark.
 6. This year, Morasha will feature a new event: Color-Blind War. Every camper will be wearing the same exact color. Yes, it might get a little confusing.
 7. This year Morasha Color War will feature the following new events: synchronized skydiving, tag-team Connect Four and cholent wrestling.
